

Happy Independence Day Eritrea!

Eritrea, a country and people united set in an arduous predicament
yet they used their might and determination as a medicament for all the pain and sacrificing to receive a divine privilege.
Freedom is this divine privilege they obtained through courage.

A country placed in a bleak puzzle
But we still fought off the trouble

A country whose authoritative figures are everyone.

No matter what circumstance we encounter on we will endure with the patience and hope that only the most persistent people can boast.

Suppressed and oppressed to an unbearable extent
but Eritrea is still standing in this event.

I am trying to tell the tumultuous journey we Eritreans have taken and trying to admire that we are still forsaken to be standing no matter what happens.

We were bombarded with the notion that we were going to dampen.
But we still fought off the trouble.

We are a beautiful striving people that are bound to never ripple

because of our resilient everlasting potent hearts
that will dodge all the thrown darts.

There are still so many adversaries in our way
as we celebrate our glorious independence day.

But we still fight off the trouble.

Happy birthday Eritrea!
